Mesh Office Seating (UK) Ltd, an Ayrshire-based distributor of ergonomic office chairs based on ingenious and easy-to-operate single lever design, is celebrating its recession-beating success story with the acquirement of new 50,000 sq. ft. premises, the launch of a new website, officechairs.co.uk (<http://www.officechairs.co.uk>), and the unveiling of a new 2011 range of office seating that combines comfort with practicality and style.

Mesh Office Seating (UK) Ltd is the sole authorised UK distributor of the widely acclaimed and globally recognised 'Ergohuman' series of ergonomic office chairs. The company started life in 2008 and was initially run by one person, Gareth Gillespie, from his home. Despite the debilitating effects of the recession, Mesh now employs 10 people and has a turnover in excess of £2m: profits have continued to climb during the last three years. To cope with increasing customer demand, Mesh has obtained a large new warehouse and distribution premises in Newmilns, Ayrshire. From here, the product range is distributed through a dealer network of office furniture retailers, as well as architects and designers throughout the UK and Ireland.

New for 2011, the recently unveiled Mesh Office Seating product range includes Enjoy, Ergohuman, Ergohuman Plus, Nefil and iForm office chairs, all of which have a simple single lever control to operate the main functions of seat height, seat depth and back tilt. A range of optional accessories is available to fit the chairs, including laptop stands and foot stools. Also being launched this year to complement the existing product portfolio is a new range of lightweight guest chairs and training chairs.

The company achieved the ISO 9001 Quality Certification and ISO 14001 Environmental Certification in June 2010, and the chairs have the Greenguard Indoor Air Quality Certification. Catalogues can be downloaded from Officechairs.co.uk, which has recently gone live with a clean and user-friendly design.

Gareth Gillespie, director of Mesh Office Seating, says: "Our company is going from strength to strength. With the introduction of the 2011 product range, fresh marketing material and larger premises, we will strengthen our position in the marketplace as a top supplier of high end ergonomic office seating.”
